Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

In 2013, CIVICUS launched the following campaigns: Big Development DataShift, Action/2015 and Sustainable Development 2015. In 2014, CIVICUS carried out a scoping exercise to, inter alia, enhance civil society participation through information technologies in the post-2015 development processes. CIVICUS rolled out the Big Development DataShift project in four pilot countries — Argentina, Nepal, Kenya and Tanzania — to increase the coverage of citizen reporting and monitoring progress towards the sustainable development goals. CIVICUS also implemented two consultations engaging over 135 civil society actors in early 2014 which led to the establishment of the Action/2015 campaign seeking to tackle the root causes of inequality, injustice, poverty and climate change and engaging more than 2,200 organisations from 157 countries.

Participation in meetings of the United Nations

CIVICUS participates actively in meetings of the Human Rights Council submitting over 54 submissions at the Universal Periodical Reviews (UPR). It convened a number of side events during the Commission on Status of Women to highlight key issues in partnership with national civil society groups and a broad range of thematic and issues. CIVICUS has actively contributed to several sessions of Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) Development Cooperation Forum as well as the High Level Political Forum.

Cooperation with United Nations bodies

Along with the Department of Public Information (DPI), CIVICUS co-organized the 65th Annual United Nations DPI/NGO Conference that took place at the United Nations Headquarters from 27 to 29 August 2014. CIVICUS also served as an organizing partner of the NGO major group in partnership with the United Nations Department of Economic and Social Affairs (DESA) during the Rio+20 meeting, High-Level Political Forums, General Assembly Open Working Group on the SDGs and 2030 Agenda negotiations. In late 2013, CIVICUS joined forces with DESA for a two-year project "Sustainable Development 2015" focused on raising awareness and providing opportunities for stakeholder engagement with the United Nations system and supported 12 national partners to develop and implement advocacy plans.

Initiatives taken by the organization in support of the Millennium Development Goals

CIVICUS supported the SDGs through media statements on the need to place governance and human rights at the centre of the post-2015 development processes. It carried out national consultations in 14 countries, coordinated global meetings on the MDGs and participated in the United Nations Global Thematic Consultation in the framework of the post-2015 Development Agenda.
